United Nations Seek Plan For Disarmament

Soviet Delegation Expected To Give Attitude On Formula Suggested
By U. S.

VETO POWER IS LEADING ISSUE

(BULLETIN)
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Soviet Russia today yielded her veto right in connection with control and inspection of arms reductions, and accepted the American disarmament proposal with several amendments.

The USSR, however, insisted on retention of her veto right in the security council during the preliminary stages of setting up these controls and laying the framework of a draft convention covering the whole field of disarmament.

By GEORGE DURNO
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., DEC. 4.—The United Nations returned today to their so far fruitless efforts to agree on the first broad outline of a world disarmament plan.

Provided instructions arrived overnight from Moscow, the Soviet delegation was to express its opinion of a formula offered by the United States.

This formula, put forward by U. S. Senator Tom Connally, makes agreement in the atomic energy commission a prime prerequisite; calls on the security council thereafter to work out a detailed plan for reduction and rigid control of all types of armaments and finally would put that plan into the form of an international treaty for signature by all nations.

Soviet Asked For Time
Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky on Monday asked for time to study this "interesting" proposal. He succeeded in getting debate on the matter postponed, first until yesterday, and then until today.

The Russian delegation to date has insisted that the security council—

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc notes that even though gasoline has not been rationed for some months, ration stickers still remain on several automobiles.

Pa Newc noticed a couple of boys in a row boat early this morning rowing up the Mahoning river near Mahoningtown. They were apparently setting traps along the banks of the river.

John W. Cameron, Jr., R. D. No. 3, has just returned from a hunting trip in the vicinity of Warren and Forest county and reported to Pa Newc that he brought down a 165 pound, nine point buck on Monday morning at 7:45 o'clock on the Warren-Forest county line. Mr. Cameron is a veteran of World War II.

Distribution of Christmas checks from the local banks brought another avalanche of Christmas shoppers downtown Tuesday afternoon. Most of the buses coming into the downtown district were carrying capacity loads.

The odor of melting tar seemed to have some of the localizing effect on numerous local residents on Tuesday afternoon. Several were clustered around a small wagon on South Mill street, near a construction project where the tar for use on the roof was being melted. The warm fire, too, proved very beneficial to the onlookers.

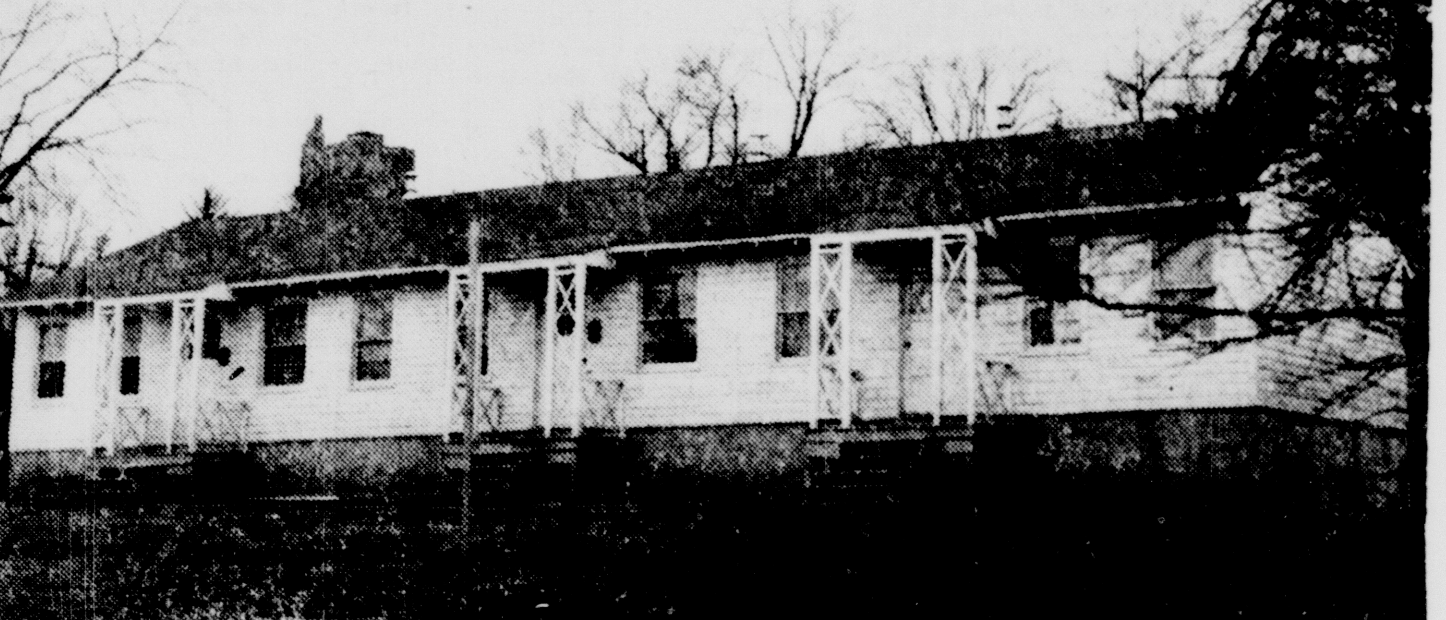

From the appearance of a number of homes about the city, Pa Newc would think that summer is ready to make its appearance once more. Many homes in all sections of the city carry a complete

Hope To Hasten Accord On Five Peace Treaties

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The Council of Foreign Ministers is strongly hoping at today's meeting to solve the final reparations problem and hasten an accord on all five treaties.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes has expressed the belief that procedural talks and efforts to draft a Big Four meeting in Europe for blueprinting peace with Germany can get under way by the end of this week.

He disclosed also that when the council starts the initial German conference at the Waldorf, he will again seek to bring Austria to the forefront. He will give unstinted support to the demands of the small countries—Belgium, Luxembourg and Netherlands, Poland and Czechoslovakia—for a hearing of their claims against Germany.

Thorez Falls Short In First Vote For French Premier

(BULLETIN)
PARIS, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Communist leader Maurice Thorez fell far short in the initial vote for premier of the fourth republic in the national assembly today.

Thorez, only allowed candidate for the job, polled 259 votes. He needs 311 to be named temporary premier until a permanent premier is selected next month.

The national assembly went into session at 3 p. m. and cast its first votes an hour and fifteen minutes later, after considerable speech-making.

Thorez is supported by the Communists and Socialists who do not press a working majority in the assembly.

President Will Break Silence On Coal Strike

Indicate Truman To Make Appeal To Nation Within
Next Few Days

KEPT SILENT IN COURT ACTION

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—President Truman is expected to break his silence on the coal shut down within a short time and appeal directly to the miners to go back to their jobs.

It was indicated in White House circles today that the chief executive probably will go on the radio within the next few days for a talk to the nation on the emergency situation.

Silent During Court Move
Mr. Truman has remained silent while the government took its fight to the finish with John L. Lewis into the courts. The president has made no statement of any kind whatsoever on the coal strike since the decision was made to ask for court action against Lewis.

The president felt that he could not speak in any way on the coal stoppage, despite its gravity to the nation, so long as the contempt proceedings against Lewis were still underway.

General Strike In Second Day In Oakland, Cal.

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Oakland's crippling general strike entered its second day with AFL unions determined to fight "until victory is won."

Heads of the city government were just as determined to "restore order" in the strife-ridden region by proclaiming a state of emergency.

Labor's all-out pledges to continue and even to extend the massive walkout were widely applauded at a mass meeting of striking unions in the civic auditorium.

The union meeting followed a declaration by Mayor Herbert L. Beach that he would ask the city council to proclaim an emergency to remain in effect for the duration of the strike.

Sporadic street clashes during yesterday's first tense day of the strike caused minor injuries to an estimated 11 persons. While the throttling effect was making itself felt among more than one million persons living in Alameda county.

Civil Service Police Tests Taken By 36

Thirty-six persons took a civil service test for a city police job when the civil service commission conducted an examination last night in council chambers, city hall. Almost all of the candidates for the eligible list are former service men.

Those who pass a mental examination will be requested to take a physical test, and following this the commission will determine who is eligible for appointment.

The examination was in charge of Professor Frank H. Burton, Harry Dismore and Commission Secretary Attorney Ralph Cooper.

Temporary police who have been serving as police who took the test will receive five per cent for such service, providing the first attain a passing mark of 70. Men honorably discharged from military service will receive 10 per cent if they attain a passing mark of 70 per cent.

If a candidate has served both temporarily as a policeman and in military service he will receive a total of 15 per cent.

Secretary Cooper stated that the names of the candidates eligible for appointment will be released as soon as their grades covering both mental and physical tests have been arranged.

It will require 10 days to grade the examination papers turned in last night. After this has been done those who won a passing mark will be notified to report to the commission's examining physician.

Rail Embargoes Are Ordered In Nation; Drastic Effect Seen

By WILLIAM UMSTEAD
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The government today slapped rigid controls on the movement of freight, passenger traffic and mail in an effort to conserve fast-dwindling coal supplies.

The controls, all of which go into effect within four days, include a strict embargo on railroad freight, limitations on the mailing of parcels, post packages and tighter restrictions on passenger travel over coal-burning railroads.

With no end in sight to the walk-out of 400,000 soft coal miners, the government took the drastic emergency actions to stretch out all available coal stocks.

The far-reaching freight embargo, which threatens to curtail production of leading industries, goes into effect at midnight tomorrow. It bans the movement of all railroad freight except food, medicine, fuels and other essential items.

Spokesmen for the automobile industry announced that automobile assembly lines will shut down "almost simultaneously" with the imposition of the freight embargo. Retail merchants face shortage of items for their Christmas sales.

Mailing Also Limited
Limitations on the mailing of parcel post packages also become effective at midnight tomorrow. Only packages weighing not more than five pounds and not more than 100 cubic inches will be permitted.

Plan For Series Of Yuletide Programs On Public Square

Following the idea of the merchants' division of the Greater New Castle Association to make this Christmas season an "old fashioned" affair arrangements have been made to present various choruses on the public square for evening programs of national and Christmas carols.

At a meeting in the GNCA office Tuesday afternoon with J. C. Wachman, executive vice president of the GNCA, a group of representatives of musical groups agreed to a program of dates and tentatively this is the program.

Tentative Program
December 9, the senior high school alumni choir; December 16, the Negro Glee club; December 19, the Eintracht Singing society; December 20, SS. Philip and James choir; December 21, the Cymrodorion, a Welsh choir; and on December 23, if plans materialize, all choirs will be massed for a concluding concert.

The choirs will sing songs of the national groups they represent. The SS. Philip and James choir will

United States Not Razing Any Atomic Plants

(BULLETIN)
PARIS, Dec. 4.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Brian McMahon declared today that the United States has no intention of learning down any of its atomic energy plants.

The Connecticut Democrat said: "The United States would make a great mistake in tearing down atomic energy plants and simply won't do it."

He gave assurances, however, that the U. S. will not keep any atomic bomb, and if when a proper international plan is put into effect.

With a nod toward Russia, he stated: "Under the inspection system we propose, no nation need feel that any other nation desires to pry into its way of life or form of government."

Steelman Will Appear Before Probing Body

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—John R. Steelman, confidante of the president, was invited today to appear before the house surplus property committee and reply to charges by Harold L. Ickes that he was aiding John L. Lewis.

Ickes, former secretary of the interior, accused Steelman of assisting the United Mine Workers head in attempting to block permanent use of the big and little oil pipelines for natural gas.

The two wartime pipelines, which extend from Texas to the Philadelphia-New York area, are now being leased temporarily by the government to the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Co., to transport natural gas during the coal shortage.

Court Recesses Until 3 O'Clock This Afternoon

Rumors Spread That Delay
Is Due To Efforts To End
Coal Strike

COURT CONFERENCES DURING MORNING (BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—An end to the nationwide soft coal shutdown was achieved imminent today as a three-hour delay was ordered in the John L. Lewis contempt case.

It was learned on high authority that the long recess—from noon to 3 p. m.—ordered by Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough before passing sentence on Lewis was granted at the request of Joseph A. Padway, chief defense counsel.

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—A three-hour recess in the John L. Lewis contempt trial was ordered at noon (EST) today amid rumors that the delay was due to efforts to bring the coal shutdown to a sudden end.

Government and defense attorneys were closeted throughout the morning with Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in his chambers, with time out only for conferences between Lewis and his counsel.

Rumors were widespread that the recess had been ordered to give Lewis an opportunity to order the 400,000 coal miners back to work. Such an act would purge Lewis of continuing contempt. He was found guilty of contempt yesterday.

Judge Goldsborough had announced yesterday that sentence would be pronounced at 10 a. m. (EST) today.

The court was called into session at noon just long enough for announcement of the recess until 3 p. m. (EST).

Tense And Silent
The court room was tense and silent with expectancy as Judge Goldsborough mounted the bench. When the bailiff announced the recess a spontaneous "oh" went up from the crowd. Goldsborough

Queen Elizabeth Injured Removed Following Storm Coal Shutdown

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Here is what the coal shutdown means so far.

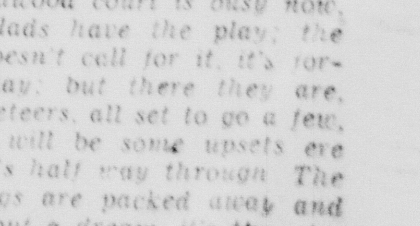

POSTAL—Parcel post packages limited to five pounds weight and 18 inches length beginning at 12:01 a. m. Friday.

TRANSPORTATION—Movement of all rail freight except food, medicine, fuel and a few other essential items banned after midnight tomorrow; passenger traffic on coal-burning roads cut in half, effective at midnight Sunday; all export freight except food and fuel now embargoed.

EMPLOYMENT—More than 8 million already idle and industrialists predict additional hundreds of thousands soon will be thrown out of work.

GENERAL—Hundreds of school, churches and industrial plants closed and household consumers expected to be hit within ten days, almost regulations effective over a wide area.

Arthur Mommer

The hardwood court is busy now, the thin-clad have the play; the weather doesn't call for it, it's rainy-one today; but there they are, those basketeers all set to go a few, and there will be some upsets ere the season's half way through. The football too are packed away and baseball's but a dream, it's time for basketball just now, for players long and lean. So settle back and read the scores, Winsocki wins again, with here and there a team upset, it happens now and again.

Westminster Has Supply Of Coal

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—There will be no "coal" vacation for Westminster college students unless the strike continues for an extended period. College authorities have surveyed the situation carefully and are assured of sufficient coal to continue for the next month.

Railroads Await Orders To Slash Traffic Further

Railroads serving this city, the Pennsylvania, P. & L. E. and the N. Y. & N. J., today awaited orders to further reduce their passenger service and enforce freight embargoes due to the continuation of the soft coal strike.

As of this morning none of the roads had received definite orders designating trains to be removed under the new ODT order. The curtailment will be an increase of 25 per cent, bringing the passenger reduction to 50 per cent and will become effective Friday midnight.

Freight embargo, ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will also become effective the same day.

Railway Express has not received orders to reduce their shipments, but expect an embargo to be enforced within the next 24 hours.

Wolves Club To Elect Officers

Further Plans Made For Gala New Year's Eve Party At Cathedral For Group

Tuesday evening at the Wolves dinner-meeting held at the Castle, three new board members were elected to take office in January for a three-year period.

They are: Nick Casalandra, Paul J. Paulia and Theodore Gastele. On Tuesday, December 10, at noon this group and also the old board members, will meet at a board meeting, and officers for the new year will be elected.

Attorney Joseph Leta Jr. was the judge of election last evening, and tellers were: Frank Moretti and Fred DeCarbo.

Elaborate plans are now underway for the New Year's eve semi-formal party, which this year will be held in the Cathedral. A. N. Carbon and Angelo Feriali are in charge of the programs to be distributed. William DeCarbo is the program chairman of the evening.

President Joseph Bordonaro Jr. was in charge of the meeting last evening and after bowling was featured.

than 18 inches in length or 60 inches in girth, to be mailed after tomorrow.

Railroad passenger traffic handled by coal-burning locomotives will be slashed another 25 per cent at midnight Sunday. This cut will bring the total reduction ordered in passenger travel since the coal mine shutdown to 50 per cent.

One freight embargo already has gone into effect. At 12:01 a. m. today, the Association of American Railroads banned all less-than-carload shipments of freight for export, except those composed of food and fuel.

There appeared to be little doubt that imposition of the freight embargo would tie up the output of the nation's major industries. Civilian Production Chief John D. Small warned that "without transportation of raw materials into, and finished products out of, factories, production must be halted."

Parcel post packages now in the mails or those mailed before midnight tomorrow will not be subject to the new limitations.

Acting Postmaster General Jesse M. Donahoe, however, appealed to the public not to flood postoffices with packages before the restrictions go into effect.

TIFERETH CLUB

Members of the Tifereth Israel Men's club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the synagogue rooms, instead of 8:30 p. m., and the election of officers will take place.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Games and other diversions were enjoyed and a delicious birthday lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter and Edith Nelson. The honorees received many lovely gifts in memory of the occasion.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee told the Houses of Commons today that Britain intends to seek abolition of the atom bomb.

He was asked the question directly by Communist Philip Piratin.

As soon as the District of Columbia court passes sentence on Lewis, however, the president will then be free to speak his mind to the country on its most critical post-war work stoppage.

No announcement has been made as to when the president will act, but it may take place by this week-end.

St. Vitus Church Triduum Services

Solemn Closing Of St. Anthony Novena On Feast Of Immaculate Conception Sunday Eve

Triduum services on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings in St. Vitus church and solemn closing services on Sunday evening, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, will bring to a close the solemn novena, honoring St. Anthony, in conjunction with the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

One service will be held each evening, starting at 7:30 p. m. Those who made the solemn novena, are bound to attend the triduum, in order to gain all the plenary indulgences. However, those who were unable to attend the novena, may attend the triduum services.

Confessions will be heard each evening. Assisting at the services will be Rev. Fr. Albert M. Inteso, and Rev. Fr. Francis Boyle.

The shrines in the church are being appropriately decorated with fall flowers, in anticipation for the capacity crowd which attends the solemn novena closing service every year.

oil—where the Big Five each enjoy the veto power—should have control of all phases of disarmament.

The United States, Great Britain, France, China and others are determined that the security council shall not have control over the international system of inspection and verification, which must be set up.

In particular, the United States will brook no veto power on rigid and continuing inspection of the manufacture and uses of atomic energy. The American delegation has served notice that unless the question of the atom is settled satisfactorily, this government will have no part of any disarmament plan.

Other moot questions upon which the 54-member world body have tried to get anywhere in eight weeks of debate also were discussed today.

They included the problem of what to do about Franco Spain, and now, if at all the Big Five veto power could be revised or restricted.

Burglar Steals $139 In Seventh Ward

Enters Bedroom While Occupants Sleep; Escapes With Money This Morning

Sneak thief some time before 3 a. m. today entered the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Szedute, 105 North Wayne street, a Pennsylvania Railroad watchman, and stole $139.

Noise made by the fleeing thief awakened the occupants.

Szedute's trousers contained a wallet with $139.31. The trousers were on a chair in his bedroom. The thief took the trousers, rifled the pockets of the wallet, and money, but did not take a railroad watch.

The trousers were found on the stairway.

The burglar entered and left the house through a cellar door.

smiled, the bailiff called for order, and the judge filed out of the courtroom followed by the attorneys.

Attorneys for both sides refused comment on the delay.

Goldsborough first conferred in his chambers with both defense and government counsel and later met with Assistant Attorney General John P. Sounett and other Justice department lawyers.

Lewis and his counsel then were given the use of Sounett's office in the district court building for a defense conference.

Lewis is Nervous

The United Mine Workers leader, facing the possibility of jail or a heavy fine, or both, for refusing to halt the coal shutdown, showed nervousness for the first time during the contempt proceedings.

Lewis entered a vacant jury room and paced restlessly, puffing at a cigar while the lawyers presented to Judge Goldsborough their views on the punishment matter.

Meanwhile, it was indicated at the White House that as soon as the court proceedings are ended President Truman will break his silence on the coal crisis and go on the radio with an appeal to the 400,000 miners to go back to work.

and while the post will raise the money principally among its own members, anyone wishing to give to this worthwhile project will not be refused.

Gifts Received

Already gifts of $25 have been received by the Lawrence county chapter of the Military Order of the Coonies of the V. P. W. and $25 from the 40 and 8 of the American Legion.

Contributions can be left at the Legion Home, with any member of the American Legion post, or by mailing it to "Gifts for Yanks," post office box 685, New Castle, Pa.

This project has been one of the Legion's major objectives over the past three years, but because of the fact that the boxes which were given heretofore were not of equal size and content, the state department is asking for cash contributions this year, from which a box of uniform size and content will be packed and distributed at Christmas time.

In addition to the Perry S. Gaston post, all other Legion posts in the county are taking part in this campaign, each post having been asked to raise a fund equal to 25 cents per member.

down and taken prisoner by the Germans. During transfer from one location to another, he escaped and was given aid by the French underground until he finally got back to the American lines. The couple are shown in the above picture with their five weeks old son, William McChesney, III, as Bill takes a few minutes relaxation from study.

McChesney is one of many men who are now seeking homes for their families and for themselves while they complete an education that was interrupted by the war. With the building of these barracks, constructed of wood from the barracks formerly at Camp Reynolds, Westminster is easing the situation on its own campus, for the present.

Eight prefabricated houses are also being built for faculty members and will be ready for occupancy by Christmas vacation.

Comment on the small apartments and dormitories has been generally favorable. One ex-G. I. said his home was fine "except for a few leaks in the plumbing." Another finds his room comfortably warm. The barracks are heated by gas, with an automatic shut-off for protection.

These buildings have been under construction since last summer, with several delays caused by a strike of the construction workers and difficulties in getting materials.

sing some of those rollicking Polish songs, along with Polish Christmas carols. The Eintracht will sing German melodies while the Cymrarians will sing a number of beautiful old Welsh airs.

Lighting Is Puzzle

Just now the matter of lighting the square is a puzzle but it is hoped the coal strike will be over by the time the series gets under way. But even though the situation is still in effect, there will be light of some kind, if flashlights have to be used, or a number of trucks have to be parked with their lights on.

Christmas carols on the public square. Sounds like a fine idea and should be one to attract many people. And in the idea is a germ of a larger idea, that of an annual Christmas carol program for the public square.

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for kindness and sympathy extended during our recent bereavement. Also for beautiful flowers and cards donated.

furnishing of porch furniture just as they did during the hot summer days. In some instances the cushions and swing coverings remain on the furniture, but in a very badly soiled condition from the winter weather.

Albert Leasure of 22 North Lee avenue reported to Pa News this morning that he shot an eight point, 150 pound buck near Kane early yesterday afternoon. This is his second deer in two tries. Early morning risers are now able to select the kind of alarm clock that will emit the proper sound on these cold frosty mornings that will rouse them from their sleep. During the war days, clock seekers had to take what they could get and like it, but now an avalanche of the alarm clocks has descended on the local market, with varied types of warnings from the gentle buzz to the clanging cang.

Announcement of the forthcoming issue of a new city directory should spur the numbering of a lot of city residences so that solicitors for the new book will have little trouble in getting the correct house number. Newly built residences should have new numbers attached likewise.

Pa News thinks that in the midst of the present coal crisis home owners should be more careful in the care of their furnaces, as a glance at many backyards finds ash piles, showing much wasted "green" coal, which if burnt would produce plenty of heat. Many times faulty grate bars in the furnaces cause the live coals fall through and eventually are discarded.

DAVIS MORGAN CHURCH WEDDING

At a candlelight wedding in Mahoning Presbyterian church Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Helen Louise Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald E. Davis, of 407 West Madison avenue, became the bride of Jay Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan, of Bessemer.

Before an altar banked with ferns and palms, Rev. Ross Haverfield officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of a gathering of friends who attended the open church ceremony.

The bride wore a wedding gown of embroidered white duchess satin with matching shoulder-length gauntlets and a floor-length veil trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and white roses. Mrs. Earl White, maid of honor, wore a gown of pale blue net with a matching velvet bow at the waistline. As bridesmaid, Mrs. Joseph Kline wore a gown of the same style of pale pink net. Both wore bonnet headresses to match their gowns and carried colonial bouquets of pink and white roses and mums.

Richard Reed, of Mt. Jackson, was best man and ushers were Donald Martin, of Mt. Jackson, and Herman Bader, of New Middletown, O. Appropriate nuptial music was played by Mrs. Ramona Allen, organist.

After a brief congratulatory period at the church, there was a reception for 75 guests at the home of the bride's parents. An heirloom Chinese embroidered cloth covered the table from which refreshments were served with Mrs. Peggy Alexander and Miss Doris Gibson pouring. A four-tiered wedding cake was a feature.

The newlyweds left by car on a wedding trip to Detroit and Chicago and on their return will be at home with the groom's parents.

Jackson high school and veteran of four years' service with the army in the Pacific, is employed at the Bessemer Limestone Corporation.

The Sugar Is Here

Several days ago an editorial appeared in this column headed, "Sugar for Christmas," in which we suggested that the government should validate an extra stamp for Christmas sugar for housewives.

Since then there has been considerable comment about the idea. Housewives endorse the idea, of course, for most of them are out of stamps and almost out of sugar.

What we wanted to know was whether the idea appealed to the wholesale and retail merchants, whether it could be done without curtailing sugar stocks and whether or not the sugar was really here.

Here are the facts. Retail merchants have a heavy supply of sugar on hand but few orders. Wholesalers have heavy stocks on hand, so heavy that in the past week four carloads of sugar, averaging about 65,000 pounds each, were refused by wholesalers because their inventory is heavy and demand light.

Validating a stamp for five pounds for each person in New Castle would mean 250,000 pounds of sugar for the Christmas season. The four carloads which were refused would have supplied every person in this city with five pounds of sugar, but because of unreasonable ration curbs, housewives must get along without sufficient sugar, stores are stocked and wholesalers are refusing carloads. Sounds ridiculous but it's true.

This is not to suggest that all controls should be taken off. Were the rationing to be taken off entirely, wholesale bakers, candy makers and soft drink manufacturers would probably load up to the point where the supply for home consumption would be reduced.

All we are suggesting is that with the Christmas season nearly at hand, with plenty of sugar available, families should be permitted a few sweets for Christmas, after four years of partial abstinence.

Back of the refusal of the government to validate extra stamps is the plan of Howard R. Tolley, director of the Division of Economics and Statistics of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations. This plan is not a famine relief plan. It is a plan to raise the normal consumption of sugar in other countries at the expense and through the sacrifice of the people of the United States. The Tolley plan would keep the United States on a wartime basis years after the peace.

What is true in New Castle is undoubtedly true in Pittsburgh, New York, Kansas City and Los Angeles. There is plenty of sugar to permit an extra five pound stamp to be validated. To refuse to do so will continue to pile up heavy stocks of sugar which we can send to some nation which seems to delight in taking pot shots at us.

Isn't it about time we gave some thought to our people? And we repeat, how about five extra pounds of sugar for the American kids and adults at Christmas?

Scientific But Simple

Things are getting more complicated all the time, but sometimes the result is simplification. In case this is too much of a paradox, take the case of the world's fastest stop-watch, a new electronic gadget which will record accurately one-millionth of a second.

Undoubtedly this invention will be of great value in the fields of science and industry, for which it is being developed. But for those technically inclined, consideration of its value in the field of sports might be more in order.

For example, American track records list the best time for the 60-yard dash as 6.1 seconds and there are eight co-holders of this mark including such speedsters as Jesse Owens, Herbert Thompson, Barney Ewell and Edward Conwell. The records for the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes also have several co-holders.

Now it is reasonable to believe that no eight men can run the 60-yard dash in exactly the same time, although stop-watches heretofore in use may not have been able to prove it.

The new electronic timer can be expected to decide all that. In the near future there probably will be announced such times for the 60-yard dash as 6.123432 and 6.143212, making it easy to decide the winner of such an event, although under present conditions both times would be listed as 6.1.

The record books soon may look like logarithm tables, but they'll settle a lot of arguments.

Note In A Bottle

The old question of whether or not Adolf Hitler survived the last days in Berlin has been revived by the discovery of all things of a note in a bottle washed up on the Danish coast. The writer of the note, whoever he may be, claims that Hitler escaped from the chancellery, fled to Finland, took a submarine to Spain, and was lost at sea when the U-boat struck a wreck and sank off Godeslager lightship.

It is possible, of course, that this tale is true. After all, it is no more fantastic than the other lurid accounts of Hitler's last hours. But it is hardly possible to think of any account less authoritative and more likely to be false than one washed up in a bottle.

There is no simpler and cheaper way, in fact, to start a legend than to write a note, stick it into a bottle, and set it adrift. People who would not give a second glance to a scrap of paper in the street would give the same scrap their fascinated attention if it turned up on a beach in a bottle. There is something mysterious about messages sent this way which captures the imagination no matter how trivial they may be and whether they are true or false.

The present note is not worth a moment's serious consideration unless it is supported by more evidence than appears in the account reporting its discovery. It is only the first of a long line which will be turning up for years as long as there is the faintest doubt about Hitler's fate and the faintest chance of imposing on the credulity of the German people.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

President's Stand

Seen Clouding Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—While the case of John L. Lewis vs. the United States was being heard in federal district court here, President Truman felt that he should not go over the head of the mine workers' boss to appeal to the miners themselves. That is why the current week is likely to end as it began—in continuing legalism and stalemate.

The White House has been under persistent pressure to take the government's case direct to the men who are sitting out the strike. No one in authority has come forward to tell them what the stakes are in this contest, with all its tragic meaning for America and the world.

The President is being urged to get both General Eisenhower and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes to go on the air in direct appeals to the strikers. They could present most effectively the picture of what the loss in coal means to the United States in relation to western Europe and the German occupation.

Views Appeal as Improper

The President has been studying the possibilities of a personal radio appeal. But he believes it would be improper so long as the case is being argued in court. While that may be in accord with the proprieties, it does leave the country with a curious sense that the coal crisis is occurring in a vacuum. Or, rather, it is as if it were happening behind a screen, with the public permitted to see only the shadowy outlines of the chief contestants.

The silence the President is enforcing on himself seems to leave the government leadership in what is certainly the sharpest test of its strength in many years. Reports from the field say the miners are puzzled and confused. They are not quite sure of the ground they stand on.

They remember back to the time, shortly after V-J Day, when the administration in Washington assured them they were entitled to wage increases. With that went administration approval of a cut of about six billion dollars in taxes, including the excess-profits tax. Now, while their average weekly pay has been fairly high, the miners, along with most workers, are feeling the pinch of spiraling prices.

Sees Appeal as Worth Effort

They lost 50 days' pay in the strike of last spring and their union does not dispense strike benefits. So they are in a cheerless and increasingly sullen frame of mind as they read the violent criticisms of their leader. While a direct appeal might be that much wasted breath, it's just possible the miners would be receptive to the story of the fearful effects of the loss of millions of tons of coal at this critical moment in history.

The hope of a private settlement between the operators and the union seems, for the time being at least, to have gone smoldering. There are still-necked operators who look to the incoming Congress to solve their union problems. They see no reason to deal with Lewis at this point.

They remember back to the good old days before 1933 when Lewis' union was so torn by inner dissension that its effectiveness was almost all that. That, of course, was when coal was a very sick industry. The depression hit the mines harder than almost any other segment of the American economy.

Signpost to Britain

For both operators and miners, there is a significant signpost in Great Britain. Because of the inertia of British operators and the pressure of British miners, the industry failed to modernize.

The output per man-hour is much smaller than it is in this country. Now, Britain's mines are to be nationalized. On Jan. 1 the Labor government will take them over in what Laborite Herbert Morrison has said will be a severe test of whether a Socialist regime can successfully run an ailing industry.

In a recent speech, Morrison called coal the key to peace in Europe. He pleaded with the British miners to increase their output so that hungry, cold Europeans could go to work again. If the British can step up production, Morrison claimed a 6 percent increase in the world's coal supply.

It is months—British Socialists would be able to argue the superiority of their system over ours.

Some trade-unionists in this country are beginning to talk about nationalization as the only solution for our coal industry. That certainly would not please Lewis, who regards himself as a defender of private enterprise. By the ruthlessness of his tactics, he may make inevitable the very thing he professes to dread.

LAKE SUCCESS.—Sir Hartley Shawcross, British attorney general, tells UN political and security committee: "Prohibition of all mass destruction weapons is essential, not only the atom bomb but the rocket and other methods even more terrible mentioned here, but the extermination of the world is not entirely known to this committee."

PALM BEACH.—Charles S. Garland, president of the Investment Bankers of America: "The entire world is looking toward the United States for moral, political and economic leadership and yet we must wonder whether we have not failed our stewardship."

WASHINGTON.—Paul V. McNutt, ambassador to the Philippines: "If the Philippine experiment in democracy succeeds, American democracy will have been successfully transplanted to the Orient, the first such transplantation in history, of our entire political concept, philosophy and system."

Jimmy Petrillo said "Thank heaven for the federal courts!" But forget to add "This endorsement does not necessarily reflect the views of any other AFL leader on trial."

But Jimmy is the first man in show business who could advertise in the trade papers "At liberty . . . and glad of it."

With people in show business "At liberty" means "out of work." With Jimmy it means that he can lead the band in "White Christmas" this year and not "The Prisoner's Song."

Jimmy was tried under a law popularly known as "The anti-Petrillo act" but somewhere between Congress and court it fermented and came out "pro."

However Jimmy has set an awkward precedent . . . in saying "Thank heaven for the federal courts!" He leaves us waiting for the answering "Amen!"

If enthusiasm for the courts becomes popular we are apt to become once again a placid, law-abiding people more dull than dramatic.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Is travel broadening?

That is a question many people have asked themselves, either as an excuse to go on a trip and justify the expense, or because they went on one and found that, after all, cocktail lounges and movie shows are pretty nearly the same all over the world.

Travel is broadening. But you must keep your eyes, your heart and your minds open. The things that broaden you, however, are not seen on sightseeing buses and personally conducted tours. You find them on the byways and in the hidden corners. You find them as your feet speed over mountains and along the prairies. You find them by going into homes and stores and talking to the simple people and getting to know their everyday living.

I cannot begin to tell you how much I learned in my three days in Texas. I wish I could have stayed there three months.

You hear so much about "no more opportunities." You hear that pioneering is dead and that America's best days are in the past.

Just go to Lubbock, for instance, and you will come away with your eyes wide open to the wonderful opportunities still existing in this country.

You will see new industries springing up all over the place. You will see young people pioneering as bravely and resolutely today as your ancestors of a hundred years ago.

Just as the pioneering is done in automobiles and airplanes instead of covered wagons.

I met veterans who, with very little capital opened stores and are prospering. I met a young fellow who went into the taxicab business.

Automobiles tires in color to match the color of the automobile are promised for "the car of tomorrow."

Travel is broadening—so, a pleasant trip to you.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

We read in the paper where the school board can not do anything at present concerning the pay for teachers . . . it seems that the law has their hands tied . . . because of a phrase whereby the only means the board has to pay more money is by declaring an emergency . . . And the word emergency is defined in definite words . . . and those words do not mention teachers' pay.

Well now . . . that is probably all well and good. The law is the law . . . and we personally think that something should be done for the teachers . . . and we also firmly believe that our school board will do something for the teachers.

Some localities have had difficulties between employers and employees. We are against work stoppage . . . as we feel that arbitration is a great thing. It takes the party of the first part and a party of the second part to arbitrate . . . Good Americans can and do arbitrate . . . there is no need to make innocent people suffer for the wants of a few.

Each individual has the right to enjoy freedom . . . the four freedoms . . . but his right stops when he steps over the bounds of his own little sphere. For example . . . you can work if you like or you can stay home . . . You can sing in your own home or tear down a wall . . . you can eat what you like and wear the size shoe that you prefer . . . Just as long as your actions do not interfere with the freedom of your fellow citizen. Your fellow citizen can do the same . . . but when an individual steps over the bounds and bothers his neighbor . . . then he has violated his right to freedom.

The right to strike is right . . . just so long as it does not interfere with the freedoms of non-participating individuals. You can leave your family and no one will say a word . . . but the minute your family becomes a charge on non-participating individuals . . . you have overstepped the things that we cherish so dear in these United States.

No Room For Draw

With John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4

HAVING refused to yield to the indefensible demands of Mr. John L. Lewis and elected to fight him, instead of surrendering to him (as did his predecessor, Mr. Roosevelt during the war) the one thing President Truman cannot now do is to weaken. That would be fatal.

HE simply has got to see it through. Fortunately, there is every reason to believe that such is his firm purpose. "Guts" is not an elegant word but it is expressive, and the testimony of those who know him best and longest is that Mr. Truman has them. He is not a great man and does not pretend to be. But unless his friends are badly mistaken, he is not a man who can be pushed around. Nor will he run away from a fight.

THE battle he is in now in some ways is a far more vital one than any in which a president has engaged in our time—and the stakes could hardly be higher. His opponent is ruthless, resolute, experienced, highly intelligent, financially powerful, deeply entrenched, solidly backed and ably defended. He has defied the law, the courts, the congress and the President. As Mr. Walter Lippmann trenchantly says, he is in conflict with all the branches of the government of the United States. Clearly, this fight must go to the finish. So far as the President—and the country, too—is concerned, to lose now is unthinkable—but to permit it to end in a draw is almost equally so.

WHILE it is true Mr. Lewis has defeated presidents before, never before has the issue been so clearly drawn, the consequences of defeat been so unmistakably dire or the country brought so close to the brink of economic disaster. This time the President is armed with a public sentiment such as has existed in no previous engagement between the government and the labor professionals. In the past when demands have been presented, the government has been afraid or unwilling to fight. It has humiliating acquiesced. It has been more than half-way on the side of the unions, which is the real reason for the present intolerable state of affairs. It never could have come about but for the calculated coddling and degrading alliances of the Roosevelt regime.

NOW for the first time, the link between the White House and the unions has been broken and the showdown has come. For the first time the President, instead of lying down, is standing up to fight. That the American people are overwhelmed with worry about Lewis' situation is not the shadow of a doubt. Except for the professional labor bosses, their political stoolies and dopes, the only opposition comes from the radical groups whose aim is to promote chaos. Except for these, the people are solidly supporting him—and that is the reason he is bound to win in the end.

The cost will be very great. It already is great, and in the end it will be enormous. Hardships will ensue. There will be vast losses much suffering and many scars. No one will escape unscathed.

BUT the country can take it. The country can take anything—except another surrender to Mr. Lewis. That is out. No one wants to think of the kind of country this would be. It is not the kind of country to happen—of what would be the situation abroad as well as at home. What the people want now is to have the President hit Mr. Lewis with everything he has. And this citation for contempt is by no means all he has. There are plenty of other legal weapons available before Congress meets to enact preventive laws that will make a repetition of this national bungle impossible. The United Mine Workers' union can be prosecuted under the anti-trust laws. Its funds can be impounded. It can be heavily fined. Indemnities against its officers under the Smith-Corona bill can be secured.

There are plenty of things to do and the public sentiment is very much in favor of doing all of them. The one thing public sentiment does not favor is a face-saving compromise—another partial triumph. It is understandable that while the present court proceedings are continuing that it would be improper for Mr. Truman to address the people on the subject. It could be charged that he had attempted unduly to influence the court. But once the decision has been rendered, it is to be hoped that he will take the earliest opportunity to present the whole picture to them—that he will "lay it on the line" and stand by his guns.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRIAL TO PARENT AND CHILD

Many a father on returning from the service is disappointed or deeply hurt because the young child he had not seen for months, or had not seen at all, does not warm up quickly to him with affection. A certain mother writes:

"When our baby was a year old my husband enlisted and was sent overseas. All the time he was away he wrote of her and the day when he would come home to be with her. I always talked to her of him and wanted her to love him but for some reason she won't make over him the way he wants her to and she doesn't want to go to him at times . . . If he wants to kiss her and she pulls away he gets bad."

Observing Different Fathers During the years when large numbers of men were returning from the armed forces I was able to observe in depth, on trains and buses, many returning fathers with the young child. I was interested in the wide variety of ways in which the youngster the father had returned to recently or on that very day was treated by him. It was easy to see that some of these fathers were actually annoyed at the child's cold reception. I saw some fathers acting much like the father described in that letter acted. I also saw some other returning fathers who evinced deep understanding and were gentle and patient with the little boy, never trying to force any show of affection on the child or from him.

I think I understand, for when I returned to my family after some months during the first World War the older children then about 2½ and 4 years old treated me as a stranger. Even after I returned home for food it took many weeks before I won the kind of companionship and affection which I cherished. Even though I should have had more than average insight, I actually suffered some.

Patience Is Important

Anyway, mothers should be patient with the father returning to the family with young children, even older ones. It is not an easy experience for him. He has dreamed and dreamed of his returning only to find considerable disillusionment. He sees the long-cultivated affection expressed between the child and mother. To him the contrast can be a rude one to him. Certainly, he shows disgust with the father's ways won't help him or the child. He never dreamed understanding from the wife and mother. She, too, (Continued on Page Ten)

Agreement On Germany

Work Of Lt. Gen. Clay

By J. C. OESTRICH

Gen. Clay's military career, through West Point and through the tribulations of both world wars, has been one of outstanding organizational ability.

He has been saddled with some of the toughest tasks in the history of the United States Army. And obviously administration of occupied Germany was the hardest of all.

Clay entered upon the scene of Germany's ruin with the eyes of a realist and the heart of a southern gentleman, a man fully versed in the fullest extent of his authority against war criminals, past and present, but equally determined to see that the innocent should not be unduly punished.

And among his first recommendations was that the four divided zones in Germany should be brought together as a total entity, not only so that the German people might have an opportunity to revive themselves along lines of decency complexed by Nazism, but that American taxpayers should have a respite as well.

In addition, his theory always has been that France the low countries, and perhaps even Soviet Russia can never hope to attain the highest possible standards of living unless in the core of Europe there exists a peaceful and industrious Germany.

The bi-lateral accord now made public lacks full effectiveness until Russia and France subscribe. That they will do so seems inevitable when they sign. Gen. Clay will have accomplished a mission that to him seemed faith and gospel and military strength all combined.

He always has been one of the strongest proponents of complete demilitarization.

He never has lost an opportunity to stress the absolute necessity for complete German disarmament and elimination of that country as a source of threat to world peace.

But he has, at the same time, insisted without hesitancy that an economically unbalanced Germany is not only a useless world appendage but an inherent peril in itself.

And the victor was Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who came out of Marietta, Ga., as the son of a long family of statesmen and diplomats to serve as deputy governor of the occupied reich and whose unique combination of strength and tolerance have set the standard for future peace in Europe.

The agreement signed between United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, whose text has just been made public, is nothing more or less than a formal codification of the plans favored by Gen. Clay since he first took over his duties in Europe under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Grand Jury Asks For Traffic Light

Unusual Recommendation Is Made By Lawrence County
Grand Jury

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE

Something new in the way of grand jury recommendations was made when the December grand jury returned its findings, a recommendation that seems to have a lot of merit. The jury, of which Frank B. Kaufman was the foreman, recommended that a traffic light be placed on East Washington street in the vicinity of Pearson and County Line streets.

Both streets have considerable traffic coming out onto Washington street and the jury felt that a light there would reduce traffic hazards.

The grand jury also recommended that the county commissioners have plans and specification prepared for remodeling of the old Kurtz property which lies northeast of the court house and which is owned by the county. When remodelled the property would be used for a detention home for juveniles. The jury also recommended an assistant matron for the juvenile and detention home.

True bills were found in the following cases presented by District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson:

George Keller, morals charge; Westell S. Aiken, receiving stolen goods; Charles E. Watkins, aggravated assault and battery and unlawfully carrying a revolver; John Bruno, assault and battery and indecent exposure; Raymond Whiting, malicious mischief, aggravated assault and battery, and wantonly pointing firearms; William Wilson, statutory rape; Joseph Cople, armed robbery, larceny from person, larceny, receiving stolen goods and pointing a deadly weapon.

Everett G. Eakin, driving while intoxicated; Anthony Rubino and George Jim, morals charge; Mary Powell, unlawfully discriminating on account of race and color.

Not a true bill was returned in the following cases: George Jim, morals charge; Ronald B. Wimer, assault and battery; Five morals cases were continued.

FRESHKUR WOOLLENS GIVE BEST RESULTS

Women not too experienced in sewing often feel that making a wool dress is a difficult problem.

With a little care and attention to the rules for handling it, they can have satisfactory results, believes Mrs. Hollobaugh.

Wool fabrics head the list of available dress materials this fall. These fabrics come in interesting weights, textures, and patterns so give the homemaker a chance to choose what she wants.

When selecting materials for her dress, the homemaker should decide whether she wants all wool or one of the several blends of fibers, such as wool and rayon, wool and nylon, or wool and cotton. When other fibers are combined with wool, the fabric is less warm, it may not be so soft to the touch, and it will probably respond differently to pressing.

If the material is not preshrunk, it is advisable to shrink before cutting into it. The easiest way to shrink the material at home is with steam.

Wool tends to shrink in the wash. However, without a steam iron follow this procedure: dampen a sheet, lay it flat on a table, and lay the wool flat and straight on the sheet. Roll the sheet and wool together firmly but not too tight and allow to stand overnight. Press the wool on the wrong side, using a dry press cloth. Be sure the fabric is thoroughly dry before cutting into it. Wool materials may be taken to a tailor or dry cleaner for shrinking.

Mercerized thread of a shade darker than the material is best for sewing on wool. Machine stitches may be a bit longer than those used for finer materials. Use 12 to 14 stitches per inch.

It is very important to "press as you sew" when working with wool, reminds Mrs. Hollobaugh. Every seam needs it. Fullness may be obtained out of sleeve caps and hems by pressing.

Wool lends itself to self-trimmings like bias folds, bands or binding. Card loops and fabric covered buttons are popular trimmings this season.

The number "seven" has been regarded as mystic and sacred since ancient times. It was regarded as lucky among the ancient Pythagoreans, Babylonians and Egyptians. The number "seven" occurs frequently in the Bible and in the Apocalypse.

Rat skins are used to make pocketbooks and tobacco pouches.

Colorado Miners May Be Drafted Back To Work

DENVER, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The possibility loomed that Gov. John C. Vivian may use his emergency powers to draft coal miners into the Colorado State Militia and order them back to the mines.

The desperate coal shortage in Denver and other Colorado cities, Gov. Vivian said, has caused him to investigate the legality of drafting coal miners.

He has requested Attorney General H. Lawrence Hinkley and two Denver attorneys to investigate the state statutes and constitutional provisions to determine his authority.

The governor also ordered a proclamation today calling on all mayors, county commissioners and other local authorities to take immediate steps to provide shelter and possibly food in community houses or centers.

This move, he said, would provide for warmth and comfort to the maximum number of persons with the least amount of fuel in the event they are forced to leave their homes because of lack of coal.

COAL STRIKE EFFECTS
NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A survey of 74 New York City industrial firms disclosed that if the coal strike continues a large majority of them will have to curtail production within 30 days with a monthly business loss of $2,932,000, the Commerce and Industry Association of New York reported.

The association's survey covered what is termed a cross section of 26,000 manufacturing firms in the city.

Public Warned Of Fire Hazards During Holidays

Many Tragedies Occur During Yule
Season Due To Improper
Use Of Trimmings

Carelessness in the Use of the Christmas trimmings that add so much color to the season, may turn holiday happiness into tragedy, according to a warning issued from Pennsylvania State Police headquarters today.

Captain W. F. Traeger, fire marshal of the State Police Bureau of Fire Protection, said, "Every person responsible for placing Christmas decorations must be certain that trimmings of proper material are selected and that they are placed in such a manner as to eliminate the danger of fire."

Only decorations should be used which are made of material that is non-inflammable or treated to make it fire retardant.

Flimsy Paper
In commenting on the more common of holiday fire hazards, the fire marshal pointed out that flimsy crepe and tissue paper streamers and other inflammable decorations placed near open flame, electric lights or other heat producing elements are among the more common causes of Christmas season fires.

Other causes of fires are faulty lights and temporary wiring, candles used as Christmas tree lights and permitting tree lights to burn when all adults are absent from the home.

Even certain types of toys may cause fire. Those constructed of celluloid or similar combustible materials and those powered by inflammable liquids are especially dangerous.

Lions Learn About Vocational Ag Work In Lawrence County

James C. Fink, Tri-County Vocational Agriculture Supervisor, Addresses Club Members

Lions club members learned about the interesting work which is being done under the supervision of Lion James C. Fink, director of vocational agriculture for Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties, when he addressed the club at its weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton Tuesday noon.

In addition to supervising the work in the various county high schools, which employ a full-time instructor, Mr. Fink told about the day-unit classes which are conducted by him at Harlansburg and Princeton, and the veterans classes, which were first organized here and have since spread to Butler and Beaver counties, with a long list of applicants on the waiting list, unable to be taken care of because of a lack of instructors.

Mr. Fink also told of the work being done by members of the Future Farmers of America, a group composed of the youths in high school and college, which encourages the farm youth to better themselves by competitive projects. The state convention, he stated, will be held in Harrisburg during the State Farm Show. He spoke of the honors which have come to various farm youths of the local district. Dave Jamison of East Brook having been national vice president, and is now managing the Branchester dairy farm at a nearby point in Ohio.

In closing, Mr. Fink introduced Don Cross of Slippery Rock, now out of high school a year and a half, who is a state officer of the F. F. A., and who has already formed the nucleus of a fine herd of pure-bred Guernsey cattle, worth several thousand dollars, as the result of an F. F. A. project he started while in school.

Don won two firsts, a third and ninth in state competition last year with his prize cattle, and won the state award of $100 for the best herd which he could apply on the purchase of additional stock. He was able to buy at a most reasonable rate a Guernsey heifer which, he stated, now is worth over $1,000.

Don told how beneficial the F. F. A. program is to the youth on the farm, to which he attributed every bit of success he has had so far in his brief career in dairying, and of what the F. F. A. did during the war to boost the war effort.

Marines Change Insignia And Titles For Ranks Of NCO's

Rank titles and insignia of the Marine Corps which have been used for so many years that they have become a part of the Leatherneck tradition have undergone drastic change and are now obsolete.

The customary NCO staff ratings have been abolished and only three titles—master sergeant, technical sergeant and staff sergeant are now being used.

The change has been made to simplify the personnel control and accounting system and the methods of promotion. Chevrons worn by non-commissioned officers are not limited to one type, those worn with the bars of the technical ratings being replaced by "rockers".

Quite an innovation from the usual procedure used in drawing and coloring pictures is being used in the class of Miss Jean Gilson, at the Home Street school on Pollock avenue, a reporter discovered on Tuesday afternoon.

Generally the students copy their subjects from books or other pictures, but down at Home street the pupils in the first grade use real live models as their subjects.

The alert boys and girls bring large sheets of discarded wrapping paper from their homes and while one of the pupils lies on the floor another traces around him or her for the outline, then both pupils begin in earnest with their crayons to make their outline very realistic. Some striking pictures have been drawn by the boys and girls and it is not difficult to discern who is depicted in the drawing.

Many scenes from memory have been drawn by the students of the lower grades, with good results being obtained.

Plans are now under way for each of the art class members to make their own Christmas gift, which they will be able to present to their mother or some other member of the family.

Health Talks By DR. W. A. WOMER City Health Superintendent

A VISIT TO GRANDMA

Benny went to Grandma's for Thanksgiving. Grandma had a bad cold. Aunt Emma had one too. Benny had a good time. He ate lots of turkey and other good things.

A few days later he began to "take cold". Pretty soon he had a bad cold just like Grandma's. By that time every one had forgotten about his exposure to the disease at Thanksgiving time.

He went to school and gave it to the teacher and quite a few of the scholars.

It would have been better for Benny to stay at home for a couple of days. He would have been safer himself and he would not have carried the disease to school.

Some teachers send a pupil home if he has a cold. Perhaps they are pretty wise.

Sons Of Italy To Have Convention In City In July

State Convention Will Bring Five
To Six Hundred Delegates
To New Castle

The Order of Sons of Italy in America will hold their annual state convention in New Castle next year. It will be a five-day affair commencing July 2 and ending July 6. New Castle has been chosen for the site of the affair from among a number of other leading cities in the state. This is the first time that the Order of Sons of Italy in America has scheduled a convention in western Pennsylvania.

There will be approximately six or seven hundred delegates present from all over the state.

John DeLorenzo, president of the local order, is selecting his various committees for the event.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

stantly should exercise imagination and try to put herself in his place. The fact that a child is of our own flesh and blood has little or nothing to do with his feelings toward us. Affection grows with personal association in a happy atmosphere of emotional security. If the returning father could only understand and wait, all would be well by and by. If on the contrary, he is impatient and feels vexed at the youngster for colder of the heart, he only hinders the growth of affection in this child. Try to force the child or anybody else to show affection for you and you only drive him from your heart. Love and affection are earned, not commanded.

CUTTING IN AT DANCE

Question: What is the correct procedure for "cutting in" at dances? It is not done where I came from.

Answer: Provided you have been introduced to a girl you may while she is dancing, step and lay your hand upon her partner's (but not on her) shoulder asking "May I cut in?" Her partner, if courteous, thereupon will surrender her to you, saying "thank you" to her and you should say "thank you" to him. This custom—not sanctioned everywhere—is usually the result of a stagline formed near the main entrance by young men attending the dance without partners. They wait to cut in on the girls who estimate their popularity by the number of cut-ins they receive. This custom is usually confined to those of college age.

Question: For a "company dinner" are demi-tasse cups always used? Does the hostess or the maid serve? Must coffee be served in the living room?

Answer: Yes, demi-tasse cups are always used for after-dinner coffee by all who have them. Coffee may be served in the living room. The hostess may serve it herself or she may have it brought in from the pantry on a serving tray and passed to each guest. There should be on the tray loaf sugar (if you can get it) and cream.

Question: Frequently when I ride on a pay-as-you-leave bus I meet and sit with men of my acquaintance. I never know whether I should pay my own fare or let the man (whom I met by chance) pay it. If he offers, should I let him pay?

Answer: Have your fare ready and hand it to the conductor if possible without letting the man see you get the coin from your purse. If he does see you, doubtless, he will offer to pay, to which reply: "I have the change right here. If he insists, and he should not, let him pay, to avoid any embarrassing discussion.

Present your problems to Miss Markel, who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

interference with free competition. Governmental intervention has had its deadly effect in two specific matters. Control of prices and control of wages. Administration policies have promoted rulings in the matter of price controls whose only possible result has been to limit production. For a long time the administration held to the absurd doctrine that substantial wage increases could be made without the necessity for any advance in the price of commodities. Forced by the steel strike to abandon this sophomoric-Communist theory, it has been compelled to sanction price rises, corresponding to increased production costs, due to higher wages.

In the matter of wage control, the administration has practically abolished collective bargaining—to which it has professed such ardent devotion—by arrogating to itself the power to fix wages, imposing its edicts on employees and employers alike. The consequence has been continuous industrial turmoil, with continually dwindling supplies in the face of unprecedented demand and unprecedented buying power in the hands of the people. The serious inflation which had developed, bringing the high cost of living to the front as a national problem, rests largely upon these arbitrary, crack-pot policies.

Not only has this ill-advised course of the administration brought hardship to the country at large, as indicated in the prevailing intra-party dispute over the most situation, precipitated a division in the New Deal itself and led to the vigorous criticism of labor organizations which were supposed to be beneficiaries of an attempt to control prices without controlling wages.

The American people were perfectly willing to accept inconveniences and even hardships as necessary and justifiable in the real emergency of war. But they may reasonably be expected to revolt against deprivations in time of peace, more than a year after the end of the fighting.

JAPANESE DOCTORS ADOPT ENGLISH

TOKYO, Dec. 4.—The English language chalked up another victory, strengthening its position as a universal language, with the disclosure here the Japanese doctors are turning toward English as their second language.

Traditionally, Japanese scientists used German as their medical language.

Since the Japanese language lacks the scope to convey the precise meaning of many scientific terms it has been necessary to turn to a western tongue. German was adopted for political as well as medical reasons.

Today, however, students at Tokyo Imperial University Medical school attend scientific English classes.

The university is preparing to keep medical records in English.

TRAGEDIES KILL FOUR OF FAMILY DURING ONE YEAR

SPOKANE, Wash. Dec. 4.—(INS)—A family of five was reduced to one today by two tragedies within a year.

The latest was a collision between an automobile and a train which claimed the lives of Mrs. Sarah Holling, 26, of Rosalia, Wash., and her sons, Wayne, 5, and Gary, 2. Three coaches of the Northern Pacific train were derailed yesterday when they were hit by Mrs. Holling's car.

The father lost his life a year ago when the family home burned. Now only a 6-year-old boy is left.

Cites Coal Loss At 4,600,000 Tons Since Strike Began

Maize explained that approximately 12,500,000 tons of bituminous were mined in Pennsylvania each month during 24 working days. Miners do not labor Sundays or holidays.

Local Man Loans Flag Of Iceland

Of Flag Last Night

Up until about two hours before the Icelandic Singers made their appearance at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, in connection with the Metropolitan Concert Guild, Tuesday evening, no one had responded to a recent request carried in The News for a flag of Iceland to be displayed during the concert.

Just a short while before the concert got under way, Robert B. Stratton of 409 Park Avenue came thru with a sailing flag of Iceland, which was prominently displayed on the piano during the presentation.

Elliott Roosevelt May Have Violated Federal Statute

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Elliott Roosevelt may have violated a federal law in making his recent speech in Moscow assertingly deprecating U. S. foreign policy.

The opinion was expressed today by Ernie Adamson, chief counsel for the house sub-committee on un-American activities.

Adamson said it was his belief that Roosevelt had violated a federal statute titled "criminal correspondence with a foreign government."

Enacted in 1799, the law provides a $5,000 fine and three years imprisonment for any U. S. citizen who contacts a foreign power with intent to influence conduct of any foreign government in relation to disputes or controversies with the United States.

PENNSY SYSTEM FURLONGS 1,500

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania railroad announced today that approximately 1,500 employees have been furloughed on the carrier's eastern region because of the soft coal strike.

A spokesman for the railroad said the furloughing became necessary because of a shrinking freight volume and a slash in the number of operating passenger trains due to the fuel shortage.

All personnel furloughed are employed in the region east of Allentown, the spokesman said.

MANY FIRMS HAVE SAVING PLAN FOR BUYING U. S. BONDS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(INS)—More than 85 per cent of Pennsylvania industrial firms employing over 100 persons are continuing a payroll savings plan to buy U. S. savings bonds, a treasury department survey showed today.

The continuation of the savings plan during the post-war period of high prices will provide purchasing power needed to keep American production from falling into a recession later," according to E. A. Roberts, state chairman of the department's advisory committee.

There are 433 plants which go to make up the combined dial telephone set on the premises of the subscriber.

British Honduras, Central America, is an important source of mahogany used in the U. S. The only railroad is a privately owned logging line, 35 miles long, built to bring out the mahogany.

Wrong Address Sends 1000 Cards Into Fire

Merry Christmas time is always a time when beautiful friendships go into the waste basket because somebody put the wrong address on a Christmas card.

According to Postmaster William Hanna, 1,000 or 1,500 cards were destroyed here after Christmas last year, because they had only one and one-half cent stamps on, and were not correctly addressed.

With thousands of cards to be handled each day, the post office staff is not able to give directory service to these cards. If the sender is lucky, his card may get into the hands of a clerk or carrier who knows where the addressee lives; more often, the greeting goes into the bonfire the post office has every Christmas.

Three-cent stamps should be used, says Mr. Hanna. If the sender does not know the correct address of the person to whom he is writing, that way, he pays in advance for directory service, for forwarding if the person has moved, and for return to the sender if all efforts at delivery have failed.

Should Be Correct
With one and one-half cent stamps, the address should be entirely correct and complete. Sometimes money is sent in incorrectly addressed cards.

Last year a lovely handkerchief was in a card addressed just to "Mrs. Smith, New Castle, Pa.". For cards sent out of town, the post office does try to locate the addressee, but for cards mailed in New Castle no such service can be given.

Correct addresses on all Christmas cards would be a Christmas present for the post office clerks and carriers. And would avoid misunderstanding with friends whose cards are never delivered.

Sunday School Treat Is Facing Handicaps

Round about this time of the year, Tammie and Mary and Junior and other boys and girls about the city begin to get just a little bit inquisitive and wonder if they are going to get a Christmas candy treat from their favorite Sunday school like they have been accustomed to receiving in previous years.

To relieve those young minds of all that anxiety and worry, a helpful reporter got busy and went around to see a few of the city's leading candy dealers to determine just how their stock was holding out, and then got busy on the telephone to find out what your Sunday school superintendent and mine was going to do about it.

Rather Gloomy Picture

Most of the wholesalers interviewed painted a rather gloomy picture indicating that supplies were very short and the price very, very high. In fact one dealer, who supplies 28 of the city's leading Sunday schools with their annual Christmas candy told this reporter that he was short just 2000 pounds of his usual quota and that the price on what he had received was up 25 percent over last year.

The outlook didn't look so bright, but a more cheering note came from the hopeful superintendents, who are doing their best to see that every boy and girl in their primary and junior department gets at least some candy, even though it might not be just like they have been giving in previous years. The reports received were that we have ordered our supplies if we can only get the orders filled.

Will Be Some Variety

Junior might not look for too many chocolates in his box or bag however the candy is packed, but he will get plenty of hard candy and some creams mixed in. A few gum drops and other inexpensive goodies will find their way into the treat which will have to suffice for this year. The younger tikes in the cradle roll will get their peppermint cane this year as these have made a come back after being conspicuous for their absence.

As long as each Sunday school boy and girl about the city are on their good behavior between now and Christmas chances are 100 to one that each will receive a treat.

Says Communists Plan To Dominate Movies Industry

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Rep. John S. Wood (D-Ga.) charged today that "Communists definitely plan to dominate and control the motion picture industry."

Wood is chairman of the House sub-committee on un-American activities which is conducting hearings in Hollywood.

The Georgia congressman said Roy M. Brewer, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees official, had furnished documents showing Communists "were infiltrating into film labor unions."

PROBING DEATH OF YOUNG BABY

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 4.—(INS)—An investigation was pressed today by the Luzerne county coroner's office into the death of 14-week-old Pamela Kay Upton shortly after she had taken medicine prescribed by a Kingston physician.

The baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Upton of Wilkes-Barre, died Sunday in Wilkes-Barre General hospital where she had been taken after swallowing the medicine.

Increased Use Of Telephones Cause Of Expansion Here

Calls At Local Central Office Have Increased 12 Per Cent In Past Year

New Castle residents have gone on a post-war telephoning spree. New records have been set in the local central office of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, which is now handling approximately 12 per cent more calls than it did a year ago, Nathan N. Jaquish, manager of the company, revealed today.

"The records usually indicate booming business, but they have created a problem for the telephone company," Mr. Jaquish said. "Continued shortages of material have delayed manufacture of needed central office equipment. Therefore, the high volumes of calls must be handled with virtually the same equipment that was in use here before the war."

The New Castle central office now handles an average of 96,402 calls a day, compared with 85,941 a year ago, the manager stated.

Mr. Jaquish said that the Bell company is now expanding facilities at the New Castle central office at an estimated cost of $1,000,000, while an additional $25,000 is being spent for the construction of outside cable and wire lines to connect subscribers to the central office.

It is hoped the central office expansion will be completed next fall. Cable and wire construction is now partially complete and is expected to be finished within a few months, he added.

Clyde Branscome Has Vertebra Broken

Local Man Suffers Serious Injury While Working Near Slippery Rock On Welding Job

Clyde Branscome, aged 36 years, of 519 Highland avenue, is in the Jameson Memorial hospital undergoing treatment for a fracture of the seventh cervical vertebra received late Monday morning while doing a welding job in the Slippery Rock vicinity.

Mr. Branscome was overcome by fumes, and only fell a distance of three feet, it was stated. His condition was said to be fair.

Through a curious coincidence Mr. Branscome became a father at the same hospital just about 12 hours after he was admitted for treatment for his injuries.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING RETURNS TO HOME

William Ayers, Pulaski youth, who was accidentally wounded through the shoulders and chest when a 22 calibre rifle in the hands of a companion was discharged several weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to his home, it was stated at the Jameson Memorial hospital today. The youth was in a very critical condition when brought to the hospital, but expert care and modern hospital treatment, pulled him through.

Local Plane In Forced Landing

Plane piloted by Frank P. Durbin, 22, of Boston avenue, as it was pictured by a photographer of The News-Tribune, Beaver Falls, after a forced landing on Saturday afternoon. According to State police who investigated the smash-up in Brighton township near Beaver Falls, the plane would not have been damaged had it not been for a rock pile in the field. Durbin, on a cross-country hop that had taken him to Canton and Erie, became lost due to weather conditions and ran out of fuel, making it necessary to land on the first open space he found.

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.—(INS)—Van Johnson would like nothing better than to go back to Broadway to star in a musical, but there are two big "buts."

"I'd love to do a musical show, only no one has invited me to go one yet," Van said.

"Besides that, even if I got an invitation I'd have to get permission from the studio and I doubt whether it would be forthcoming."

Van's ambition came out when he sat for almost an hour with your reporter on the set of M-G-M's "Romance of Rosy Ridge," chatting about this and that. He came to Hollywood from Broadway musicals as a complete unknown five years ago. That's why his ambition to star in one is completely understandable.

After talking for a while, Van grinned and said: "If the studio did give me permission to go back to Broadway, I'd be a little frightened. I'd be afraid they might think I was slipping."

With only two weeks to go on his current picture, Van admitted he is sorry the assignment is drawing to a close.

"I've really enjoyed every minute of this one," he said. "We've all had a wonderful time."

"I think it's going to be a very good picture, too."

That really means something, because Van rarely says anything about his pictures.

Audrey Totter, who's destined to become a big star, has three months off between pictures, but her program calls for work, work and more work.

She's occupying her time with drama lessons, singing lessons, dancing lessons and every other kind of lesson which will help her career.

Audrey's last was the feminine lead in "Lady in the Lake," Robert Montgomery's first directional effort. Her next also will be for Bob, so you know what this top star thinks of her talents.

The picture, to start late next month, is "Upwards to the Stars," in which Bob will act as well as direct, like the other.

Walter Pidgeon is another star with lots of time on his hands, but he's not making any going away plans until after the Christmas and New Year holidays. Mostly he's awaiting a big event in the Pidgeon family, the marriage of his daughter, Edna, Dec. 15. Where it'll be is a mystery but probably some place along the coast, like Santa Barbara.

Keenan Wynn and Peter Lawford, who've been having a wonderful time in New York, are due back in town Dec. 11. Keenan has an immediate picture assignment, but nothing new is set for Peter.

Ginger Rogers and her handsome hunk, Jack Briggs, who've been in the east for several weeks, also are due back then. It was Ginger's first visit to New York City in five years.

Icelandic Singers Thrill Audience

Notable Performance Given In Cathedral By Male Glee Club Tuesday

It took World War two to introduce a lot of American GIs to Iceland, and the post war period to introduce Icelandic music to the people of the United States. New Castle got its introduction Tuesday night December 3 and pleasant introduction it was.

The Icelandic Singers appeared in the Cathedral under the auspices of the Metropolitan Concert Guild and no better male glee club has been seen or heard in New Castle in a long time. A group of sturdy young men with sturdy voices, well trained, and ably presented. For ninety minutes they gave us the music of old Iceland and new and then one could imagine they were singing the chants of the sea in the days of their illustrious countryman Leif Ericsson.

Remarkable Tenors

The thing that stood out in the Icelandic Singers was the tenor section. Here was a whole section of lyric tenors, singing tones that a lot of modern day crooners would have to falsetto, and they did it equally well in fortissimo or piano. The tenor section of the young men from the north is something we shall always remember about them. As a group the club sang with remarkable precision and their attack and release was as sharp and clean as the winds that constantly sweep their little island nation.

Two soloists were heard, Stefan Island, tenor, and Gudmundur Jonsson, baritone. Both were applauded to the echo and both sang two encores. Sigurdur Thordarson directed the chorus and the gentleman is sprang of motion but lout on result. At the piano was Fritz Wasmann.

New Castle was the 49th city in this first American tour of the United States. By Christmas they will be back in Iceland, 14 hours by air from LaGuardia Field. If they have enjoyed singing in the States as much as New Castle enjoyed them Tuesday night they will be anxious to come back as we are to have them.

The crowd was large, about 1950 being present.

MEDICAL SOCIETY TO HEAR SPEAKER

Dr. William Shapera, neuro-psychiatrist of Pittsburgh, will be the speaker at the Lawrence County Medical society Thursday evening, December 5, when the group meets in the coral room of the Castleton. His subject will be "Convulsive States."

Roads Needed Ashes Only One Day So Far

Since the beginning of the cold weather Sunday, the Highway Department has had to cinder the roads only one day, according to Fred Martin, superintendent of the department.

Sunday the highway force had to begin at six o'clock and continued working until Monday afternoon. Roads were especially bad in the northern part of the county, where about four inches of snow fell. Only one inch fell in the southern part of the county, Mr. Martin said.

The Plymouth church, Brooklyn, N. Y., was made famous by the long pastorate of Henry Ward Beecher. Other well known pastors were Lyman Abbott and Newell Dwight Hillis.

Armitage-Wright
Losers In Fights
At Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 4.—(INS)—The fast developing careers of two young Pittsburgh district boxers suffered setbacks last night when Jackie Armitage and Bee Wright lost split decisions to Freddie Archer, Newark, and Gene Burton, New York, respectively, in Pittsburgh.

Archer's experience in the fighting won out over Armitage's lack of the commodity in the first of two 10-round co-features. The young New Kensington boxer put up the best fight of his career but was unable to cope with the veteran Archer. Armitage weighed 149, Archer 146.

The Wright-Burton bout proved a disappointment to the more than 3,000 fans in attendance. The fighters warmed to their task finally in the seventh after repeated warnings from Referee Art McGivern. Wright weighed 144, Burton 143.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 4.—(INS)—Selection of an opponent to face Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the 12th annual Sun Bowl football game at El Paso on New Year's was expected today.

A Sun Bowl committee spokesman said that VPI, which won three, lost two and tied three games, will meet either Cincinnati University's football eleven or Utah State.

Lewis May Discover Strike Has Brought Change In Miners

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS)—When the fuel furor and firing finally dies away, John L. Lewis may well discover that the most drastic eventual development of the soft coal crisis has come from the ranks of the men who stand solidly behind him on this situation.

Throughout the coal country, there is a growing indication that an internal move to revise the governing structure of many labor unions may not be far away.

It has grown out of a renewed realization of one of the oldest problems in the history of mankind—a problem tersely restated by a minor union official in a small Pennsylvania coal town:

Hard To Get It Back

"Once you've given a man almost autocratic power, it's hard to get it back."

It is no secret that John L. Lewis carried such power today within the structure of his mine workers union. Nor is it a unusual situation. There are others as notorious in the year-round news. James Caesar Petrillo, for example. Still other top union leaders have been given such powers, but have been less emphatic and less colorful about exercising them.

Much of this grows out of the convention-delegate type of structural government within the framework of the union or unions, for that method of choosing leadership has always pointed the way towards government from the top, rather than from the bottom.

Few Control Everything

Anyone who has ever attended a major political convention knows how simple it normally is for a handful of powerful individuals in key positions to control the actions of that convention.

Thus it is with unions. In most instances—except for a few locals—all delegates, officers and the like are selected by convention, making it possible for men recommended by higher officials to be railroaded rapidly into unanimous position. That these minor representatives then will perpetuate the men above them in position goes without saying.

Often, in the past, that sort of government and union policy control was quite frankly preferred (the power was then being given) since many a coal miner, new to this country, could neither read nor write English yet and preferred to place almost blind trust in someone he felt more capable of representing his interests.

Situation Changing

Today, that situation is largely dissolving, no matter where you wander in the coal patches. The foreign-born population now has become far outnumbered by its second generation, which not only is completely literate in the English language but also is well-read and well-informed on current events.

Thus, the day of blind faith is fading—and there is no better example than the questions currently being posed by the idle younger miners today:

"What's it all about? Nobody's told me what we're trying to get, even."

"Why didn't we have something to say about when we were going to walk out? This was a bad time. We should have waited until after Christmas, at least."

"Whose Idea?"

"Whose idea was this, anyway? Nobody asked me."

Many of these questions obviously come from the kitchens of their homes, because the miners often find themselves unable to answer the embarrassing queries of their wives and children.

In vain, one union official attempted to answer such a barrage one afternoon, saying "Lewis is only doing what we told him to do. We instructed him at the last convention to get a new contract. . . naturally he's not going to state his demands until this question of existence of a contract is settled. . ." and so on.

But it didn't stem the tide. Finally, he silenced them by asking flatly: "Well, whether you like this deal or not, Lewis is still the man—and where will you be if you don't stick behind him now?"

The others nodded agreement. On that point they were unanimous. If they didn't stick together now, they'd have no union. But still they were disgruntled, there and many other places. It was after that session that the official spoke of the difficulty of reclaiming power, once it was given away.

"I don't tell them that a lot of us agree with them," he added. "It would only make things worse. But after this is over, I wouldn't be surprised to see a lot of agitation for such things as secret balloting on all leaders and required referendums before strikes."

He paused to light a cigarette.

"For his own sake, Big John better come out on top of this one," he concluded. "There's more at stake than even he realizes."

Local Missionaries Will Fly Thursday

Long Delayed Return To Belgian Congo Will Be Made By Rev. And Mrs. Enos Hess

After delays of over three months, Rev. and Mrs. Enos Hess of R. D. 1 will fly Thursday, via Pan American Airways, from New York City to their mission field, Belgian Congo, Africa.

Rev. and Mrs. Hess left New Castle in September for Lancaster, Pa., for a short visit with Rev. Hess' relatives and then proceeded to New York City. After a number of cancellations, the couple were ready to fly, when it developed that Mr. Hess would have to undergo an operation before proceeding to Africa.

Having sufficiently recovered from his operation, Rev. Hess is able to make the journey with his wife. The return to the field will make Rev. Hess' seventh trip while it will be his wife's fifth journey to Africa. Upon their return, Rev. Hess will be chairman of the Congo mission field under the Alliance, while his wife will be matron of the mission station and teacher in the schools.

The couple of necessity must leave behind their two daughters, Ruth and Pauline, who are engaging in religious studies in the states with hope of taking up foreign mission service at a future date.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Hannah McIlrath, R. D. 1, mother of Mrs. Hess, will leave for New York City where she will bid her daughter and son-in-law bon voyage.

Mrs. McIlrath, who will be 80 years of age in January, is enjoying good health.

NEW SHELVES AT LIBRARY DELAYED

Postponed because of expectations that new shelving would be installed this fall, the public library's fall housecleaning is now under way.

Outside painting has been completed, and the floors are now being cleaned and polished. The new stacks, which will be built in two decks above the present stacks, will probably not be finished until spring.

Although classed as non-essential in the coal emergency, the library will be able to operate for some time on its present supply, according to Miss Alice Sterling, chief librarian.

Zelienople Home Files Claim To Unwanted Estate

BUTLER, Dec. 4.—The Old Peoples Home at Zelienople has filed claim to the quarter million dollar bequest made to the First English Lutheran church of this city which has been turned down by the church trustees as they are unable to meet the requirements of the will.

Counsel for the home is basing its claim on the "Cy Pres" doctrine, that when a testator wills his property to charity, and it is impossible for the beneficiary to accept the bequest, the legacy must nevertheless go to another charity that is capable of complying with the terms of the gift.

Permission has been granted by the state's attorney general for the home to make claim for the vast estate. Three other institutions have likewise made claims on the estate.

PROTECT YOUR CAR AGAINST CORROSION

Must be only one of several actions trying to destroy your car underhandedly. The corrosive effect of road salts and the abrasive action of flying gravel are also extremely destructive. Even in normal times it would pay to armor the underbody of your car with 3-M Underbody Protective Coating. It is a hundred times more important today when so many metal parts are irreplaceable.
